PRIME MINISTER KING ANNOUNCES:

Plebiscite At 'Earliest Possible Date'

2-Corps Army Plan For Canada In 1942: Selective Service

By FRANK FLAHERTY
OTTAWA, Jan. 27.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King today announced the government's plans for a larger and more heavily tank-supplied Canadian army overseas and immense financial contributions to Great Britain.

Legislation to provide for the proposed plebiscite and for the voting of men on active service will be introduced at the earliest date, said Mr. King.

The question to be submitted will read, "Are you in favor of rejoining the government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service?"

Rejecting suggestions that the government proceed to introduce conscription for overseas service without a plebiscite, he said, "I do not propose to erect a bad faith and the broken pledge into a principle of action."

To proceed that way, he said, would destroy the last vestige of faith the people of Canada have in free political institutions and in their public men.

TWO-CORPS ARMY

"Discussing the future war program of Canada, he told the house of commons the present army corps overseas will be made into two corps army during 1942 by the addition of a second armored division and a second army tank brigade. Three infantry divisions and two army tank brigades will comprise one corps and two armored divisions the other. The 4th division now training in Canada will be converted into the new armored division.

For the future, Mr. King predicted an extended application of the principle of national selective service but declined to go into details. He said it was proposed to increase the mobility of available manpower and add more women to employment.

"I shall continue myself to saying that the extended policy of selective service will comprehend measures to increase the supply of manpower available for war industry and for the armed forces, also measures to safeguard and, where necessary, to assist in providing agricultural labor required to expand production on the farm."

HANSON'S ATTACK

He followed Conservative House leader Hanson who opened the debate with an attack on the proposed plebiscite to release the government from its obligations against compulsory overseas service.

Mr. King said there was less distaste for the government and the opposition than appeared on the surface and remarked that Mr. Hanson did not advocate continuation in his amendment to the bill.

King Declines Commit Self On Post-Vote Step

OTTAWA, Jan. 27.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King today declined to commit himself on a question of whether he would continue in office after the plebiscite.

He was answering a question from Conservative House leader Hanson based on a reported statement by Premier Gendreau of Quebec that Mr. King was an "anti-conscriptor."

"There is no understanding, expressed or implied, with Mr. Gendreau or any other person on earth with respect to the attitude I propose to take after the people have voted," he said.

May Raise Rank

With the announcement yesterday by Prime Minister Mackenzie King that Canada's overseas forces would be increased to a two-corps army, it is expected that Lt. Gen. A. G. McNaughton will be promoted to the rank of a full general, the first Canadian to achieve such rank while in the Dominion forces.

MURDER TRIAL

Accused Incapable Of Appreciating Nature Of Crime, Jury Told

"I had the urge to kill somebody, anybody." Something in me told me that it was the right thing to do... I remember nothing until I saw her body lying bleeding on the ground. Then I knew it was wrong and I ran away."

In these dramatic words Chester W. Johnston, 24-year-old, was heard yesterday by Justice G. R. O'Connor when a jury in supreme court Tuesday morning of his participation in the murder of Dorothy Mevins Macdonald, 14-year-old Edmonton girl, who died of multiple knife wounds on November 15 last.

When court opened Tuesday morning Hugh Calais Macdonald, K.C., in his address to the jury before calling evidence for the defense, admitted that the crown had clearly beyond doubt established the guilt of Chester Johnston. "It has been proved beyond doubt," he said, "that he committed this crime."

STATE OF MIND

"It is my intention to call evidence of the normal conduct of this man, and also medical evidence to show his state of mind at the time he gave the closest attention to this evidence and the demands of the accused, so that you may be able to arrive at a decision as to the mental condition of the accused when he committed this terrible crime."

"I shall endeavor to prove," continued Mr. Macdonald, "that the accused was incapable of appreciating the nature of his act."

Mr. Macdonald said that in the evidence which the crown had presented its case, and also to the great assistance afforded him by crown officers in the preparation of his defense. "They have lived up to the finest tradition of British justice," he said.

"The counsel for the crown is not the counsel of prosecution," continued Mr. Macdonald. "He is the counsel for truth and I have never regretted nor fear example of this in his case."

NOT COMPLETELY NORMAL

Evidence that the accused was not completely mentally normal, and the fact that he was able to recall incidents suggested that he knew what he was doing at the time of the murder. Dr. W. J. McAlister, superintendent of the Oliver Mental Institute, told the jury that Dr. McAlister was called as a witness by the defense.

In a quiet, subdued voice, his answer was:

H.M.S. Barham

Reported Sunk

November 25

LONDON, Jan. 27.—(CP)—Sinking of the battleship Barham, 1900-ton veteran of the Royal Navy, in the Mediterranean last Nov. 25, was announced by the admiralty today after it had kept the loss a secret for two months to check the enemy of any profit from knowledge of the loss.

Loss of the Barham cut Britain's capital ships to a minimum of 13. The last 19 when she entered the war and since has added at least three but five have been lost—the battleships Prince of Wales, Royal Oak and Barham, and the battle cruisers Repulse and Hood.

The admiralty said the Barham's commander, Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Pridham-Wipps, second in command of the second division, fleet, whose flag she was flying, was saved.

Senior Army Officers May Be Promoted

By R. T. RICHARDSON

Senior British Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Jan. 27.—Creation of a Canadian army of two corps, by incorporating the existing Canadian corps in Britain and adding an armored division, will involve promotion of several senior officers, it is expected.

Lt. Gen. A. G. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian corps, will probably be promoted to the rank of full general. Probable commanders with the rank of lieutenant-general are Major-General G. R. Peakes, V.C., commander of the first division, and Major-General H. D. G. Crear, commander of the second division.

Gen. Crear was promoted to the rank of lieutenant-general in Jan. 1941, and reverted to rank of major-general on Dec. 16 to take command of the first division. The only lieutenant-general in the Canadian army at present is Lt. Gen. Kenneth Stuart, chief of general staff, who is second in line for promotion to full general in less than a month in December last.

Except for Lt. Gen. McNaughton, the only lieutenant-general in the Canadian army at present is Lt. Gen. Kenneth Stuart, chief of general staff, who is second in line for promotion to full general in less than a month in December last.

Feasibility is seen that four more major-general positions will be required in the army.

These would be new commanders for the first and second divisions. General Peakes and Crear are the only lieutenant-generals in the army and possibly a senior division, the latter replacing the fourth which is to be transformed into an armored division. There is nothing definite on raising another division, but Mr. MacNaughton said it would depend on developments when the fourth division appears overseas as an armored division.

Picture Of Growing Allied Might, Unity

Given British House

LONDON, Jan. 27.—(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill presented Britain with a picture of growing Allied might and unity today, announced that the Dominions are being accorded representation in the war cabinet and asked for a vote of confidence in his government.

At the same time he admitted "We have had a great deal of bad news from the Far East and I think it highly probable we shall have a great deal more."

"I am the man that parliament and the nation have got to blame for the general way in which they were served," he said in a voice made husky by a heavy cold as he summed up Britain's war fortunes in his first review since his Christmas visit to the United States.

And, he added, "I cannot serve them effectively unless, in spite of all that has gone wrong and is going to go wrong, I have their trust and their faithful aid."

Lists Points In Allies' Favor

Against his frank admission that bad news has come from the Pacific ocean battlefield, he told the House of Commons:

Considerable reinforcements have reached the Malayan front during the last week.

A Pacific defense council is being formed.

United States fighter squadrons will help defend Britain against air assault.

United States bombing squad will take the offensive with the Royal Air Force in bombing Germany.

American troops in northern Ireland are only the vanguard of more to come.

Axis losses in Libya have been three times those of the imperial forces.

"We are beginning to see our way through," the Prime Minister declared.

Pacific War Not Secondary Operation

"There is no question of regarding the Pacific war as a secondary operation," he also said.

"We are taking many measures with the United States to increase the security of Australia and New Zealand, sending reinforcements, arms and equipment by the best routes."

"It is because I see the light gleaming behind the clouds and broadening upon our path," he said at the end of his candid report of the good and evil in Britain's war fortunes, "that I make so bold now as to demand a declaration of confidence of the House of Commons as an additional weapon in the army of the United Nations."

Agree To Australia's Request

Mr. Churchill said Australia had asked for accredited representation in the war cabinet in formulation and direction of policy.

"We have, of course, agreed," he said, adding: "The same facilities will be accorded to New Zealand, Canada and South Africa."

At the close of the war leader's speech, the House of Commons began debate on Britain's war direction which Mr.

Police Lay Charge In Dual Fatality

Charge of manslaughter has been laid against Peter Lienewber, driver of one of the cars involved in a highway crash at Leduc on Christmas Day, in which two persons were killed, Supt. John R.C.M.P., Edmonton detachment, said today. Lienewber will appear for hearing in city police court at a later date, police stated.

David Repp, Calgary filling station attendant, and Mrs. Beatrice Tighe, Edmonton, both lost their lives in the accident which occurred at a crossing about a mile south of Leduc.

A coroner's jury investigating the fatality brought in a verdict which stated in part that alcoholic drink consumed by Lienewber was one of the contributing factors to the accident. Lienewber was driving David Repp's car at the time of the crash.

WHAT IS NAZIS' WEAKNESS?

Critic Fears Allies Must Overpower Nazis Great Strength To Defeat Hitler Forces

Nazi leaders are neither moral nor immoral. They are without morals. The government of the Third Reich is not a means by which people can live, but an end in itself to which every human and material value must be subordinated, an organism with one single purpose—war and conquest.

Hitler, the uneducated Austrian, often finds difficulty in translating his thoughts and ideas into precise language. German officials, however, are not at all such. Each of the Fuehrer's speeches, attempting to decipher his meaning, phrase by phrase. Some of his ministers are more explicit, however.

Bernhard Rust, who, as minister of education, has brought all the schools and colleges of the Reich securely into the Nazi fold, said last year at the opening of a new institution dedicated to training Germany's future leaders in the tenets of National Socialism.

HITLER CONVICTION

"It is the will of the Creator," Rust said, "that the earth should be a battlefield. It is Hitler's deepest conviction that war is the fulfilment of the laws of God, and that only that people which fulfills these laws can expect blessing and Providence."

Rust said, "Propaganda. How can people believe in it? Most important, but less generally realized, is the fact that Hitler believes in it. He believes in it in sufficient numbers to make Hitler a deity with the additional aid of the German people. He believes in it in sufficient numbers to make Hitler a deity with the additional aid of the German people. He believes in it in sufficient numbers to make Hitler a deity with the additional aid of the German people."

WATER PROBLEM

Translated into daily life, it means that the German household must spend almost half its income trying to find something for their family to eat. There is sufficient food of poor and average quality, most of the time sufficient to sustain life, but it is difficult to find something to eat. Smoking them over

It is not of major importance, but did you ever wonder how a winner stuck in a bun came to be known as a "hot dog"? I don't think I have ever eaten one of them without wondering where they got the idea that a hot winner stuck in a bun would make a tasty snack and immediately tried it out. The fans went for it right from the start.

Frank Stevens, head of the vast Harry M. Stevens, Inc. organization that handles concessions for many of the big sport events in the eastern United States, recently explained this mystery of the minuscule winner.

His father was originator of the concession business, starting it by selling score cards and peanuts to baseball fans at games. He devoted these first score cards himself.

This modest enterprise prospered and the elder Stevens branched out, adding him and chess conductors to the offerings. One day he got the idea that a hot winner stuck in a bun would make a tasty snack and immediately tried it out. The fans went for it right from the start.

Ted, the famous cartoonist, was at a game one day shortly after the winner-bun innovation was launched. Every day was eating them. Somehow the new sandwich reminded Ted of a hot dog and fitted into a bun. He played it up in his daily cartoons for awhile, tagging it a "hot dog" and making the point clearly by drawing a dog head on one end of the winner.

In no time the name caught on and Pop Stevens' business came along to a splendid. People couldn't quite close their minds to the implied suggestion that the winner might be filled with dog meat. Eventually, however, this squeamishness died away and the hot-dog business has boomed ever since. It has helped to build the Stevens organization into one of the most amazing business ventures in the world.

This organization handled the concessions at Churchill Downs for the 1941 Derby and required 1500 employees.

Tracking Dollars For Ducks

FRANK DAGG, one of Ducks Unlimited engineers, is not a Scotchman, but he has absorbed a lot of dog Scottish traits that help make our money do the maximum amount of work, writes T. C. Main, general manager of Ducks Unlimited in Canada.

"This fall, while working on the 'Joseph Knapp dam' (the concrete structure on the Pasqua river, near the Knapp dam) we discovered that a rock-filled crib structure on a narrow channel between Watchi Bay and Reeder Lake (about 10 miles apart) would stabilize water levels and improve 3000 acres for duck production.

"Hon. John Bracken, premier of Manitoba and director of Ducks Unlimited (Canada)—visited The Pas. At lunch, Frank pointed out to him that stabilized water levels on Watchi Bay would improve that 3000 acres for all wildlife—including fur-bearing. At a meeting that evening, the premier announced that the dam would be built. Frank got the wires hot between Ducks Unlimited and government subsidies in Winnipeg. Next day at lunch, Mr. Bracken asked Frank when he was going to start building that Watchi dam. Frank replied, 'Work started there this morning.' That's cooperation—aid and action!

"Now, a pile-driver is needed to hammer in the sheet piling—to guarantee that the dam would be water-tight. One of our small pile-drivers was in Alberta; the other in Saskatchewan. So, from the standpoint of cost, it was out of the question to bring either of them in for this job. To move in standard pile-driving equipment being used for the Knapp dam would, also, be extremely expensive. Frank finally hit on a rather extraordinary expedient.

"He found two old 8-inch pipe 'T's'. There he put together—with a piece of hard wood—a pile-driver that weighed about 500 pounds. This made a suitable hammer, that weighed about 500 pounds. Then he built levers of the 4" x 8" timber hauled in for construction purposes. Power was supplied by his own car. Everything worked out splendidly.

"When the job was finished, the hammer was dismantled, the two 'T' pieces given back to the farmer who owned them, and the 4" x 8" levers were used as walrus along the top of the sheet piling. Like the miracle of the levers and fish—hot a thing was wanted.

"And this dam set back 1887 years of estimated cost of $1,500—thanks to the Scottish traits of Frank Dagg."

James Joy Has Scheme To Beat Jinx Of Garden

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The little guy was putting the finishing touches on a loud sign which read: "Welcome To Walla Walla." And this, he pointed out, will be hung over the stage entrance to the Garden Friday night for the special benefit of Bob Pastor.

The little guy who was Bob Pastor, a former professional boxer, was Johnstone, whose well-worked warrior, Rapid Robert Pastor, tangled with Gus Leonard in the Madison Square Garden Friday night for that may lead to a shot at Joe Louis for the winner.

Well, welcomed James Joy, "the reason for this work of art is that something always happens to my Robert when he works the Garden. Take him to Keokuk or Keokake, and he's strictly a fighter. But bring him in here on the big time and he looks like a guy named Joe—and I don't mean Louis.

"So, I figure if I hang this sign over the Garden door, maybe Mr. Robert will get the idea he's home place else."

HOOF BEATS THUNDER AGAIN ON BRITISH TURF

Horse Racing Stages Striking Recovery In England

With The Pin Busters

Believe It Or Not—

—By Robt Ripley

Newmarket Sales Soar Up Sharply

LONDON, Jan. 27.—(CP Cable)—British horse racing, as game as the animals that kept it going, appears to have passed through its darkest days.

Jolted almost out of existence by the fall of France, England's most remunerative sport survived disastrous 1940 and struggled modestly through 1941.

An investment of close to $800,000, in horses at the Newmarket bloodstock sales in October was a good indication of how the wind is blowing.

The return of the Aga Khan to racing was another good omen. One of the biggest owners in the past, he was not represented on the turf last year, but his buyers spent more than $100,000 at Newmarket and his colors will be seen again next month.

To keep racing going, however, needs more than just brave owners. The public had to be considered and one of the brightest prospects for 1942 is the 1,000 and 2,000 Guineas—owned by the King.

People will go far to see a royal winner and in the fifty St. Charles and the 100 St. James races, the champions of the two-year-old division last season—his Majesty has two great horses.

This year will not be a bumper season for the royal racing, but it will be an interesting one, and as long as interest can be maintained the men who run the sport will see that it does not die.

War-time racing problems began after Dunkerque when the sport was almost liquidated by cancellation of all meetings.

British owners are a game lot, however, and they often asked with plans for 1941. Last year there were only 18 racing days compared with 231 in 1936, but at that it was better than 1940.

Slacks again were small, but a well-balanced field kept up interest and Lord Glenside, the leading owner, won $50,000 compared with $40,000 won by the top owner in 1940.

Racing has not been without its critics. Every classic had its representations in published photographs of the course and estimates of the gallons of gasoline used to take them there and the number of hours wasted which might have been spent on the war effort.

Newspapers and government officials received letters from citizens who could not reconcile themselves to feeding race horse oats which merchant seamen had transported to Britain at the risk of their lives.

The government gave a sympathetic hearing to complaints but took a firm stand in support of the sport, pointing out that the horses are limited to the bare number needed to keep racing going.

In answer to complaints about oats for National Hunt horses, Agriculture Minister R. S. Hudson said only 150 tons a season were allowed—a mere flea bit in relation to our total supplies.

Horse Secretary Herbert Morrison voiced the official view when he said in parliament that the government believed there must be reasonable relations for the people and that was not desirable to "adopt a philosophy of misery, even though there is a war."

Hogan Shatters Par To Lift First Money At Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—(AP)—In semi-darkness and muffled playing conditions, Benny Hogan charged home like the champion he is to win the $5,000 San Francisco open golf tournament Monday with a 72-hole total of 278-nine under par.

Last to start and finish, Hogan hit the California Club course for a one-under-par 71 on the first round to win top money of $1,000 and his second tournament in this state within three weeks.

He took the major prize, $3,500, in the recent Los Angeles event and followed that with a second-place finish in the Oakland event a week later.

Hogan's 55, seven under par, for the first round not only equalled the competitive course record but gave him a lead on the field that was never seriously threatened.

He had a three-shot bulge over his closest rival, Sam Snead, holder of the Canadian open title, who rounded home with two par-mashing rounds Monday for a total of 282.

Other leaders finished as follows: Lawson Little, 280; Dick Metz, 282; Al Zimmerman, Fred Mangrum, and Harry Barrie, all 286.

Up To Leafs
BOSTON, Jan. 27.—(CP)—Bob Goddard of Hershey Bears has been named by Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League. Goddard will play with the Leafs when they meet the Bruins here tonight. The Leafs are en route to Boston.

All-Star Coach
MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Herb Mitchell of the St. Paul team will be coach of the American Hockey Association all-stars for the game with St. Louis Feb. 4, it was announced Monday.

The Harvard library has doubled in size every 20 years for a century.

Mickey Owen Ready To Sign

BROOKLYN, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Mickey Owen, the crusty little catcher who was a holdout from Brooklyn Dodgers at this time last year, has written President Larry MacPhail he will accept whatever contract the club offers.

He wrote: "Send me whatever contract you think a fair. I will only take me five minutes to sign as you have always treated me fair."

The Dodgers already have signed Pete Reiser, the league's batting champion, and pitcher Kirby Higley and Hugh Casey.

NO MAN'S LAND

In the Heart of the Colorado Rockies A MINIATURE EMPIRE OF 1500 SQUARE MILES THAT HAS NEVER BEEN ACQUIRED BY THE UNITED STATES BY PURCHASE, TREATY OR ANNEXATION

Mrs. Frank Brown, Kansas Married a TWIN-HAD TWIN SONS TWICE HAD TWIN BROTHER AND SISTER TWIN UNCLAS TWIN BROTHER-IN-LAW TWIN SON-IN-LAW TWIN FIRST COUSINS AND TWIN SECOND COUSINS

EXPLANATION OF TODAY'S CARTOON
NO MAN'S LAND: No Man's Land, a tract of irregular shape in Grand and Summit counties, Colorado, is bounded on the east, north and south by territory acquired by the United States through the Louisiana Purchase. On the west, it is bounded by territory taken into the Union when Texas joined the United States. When both these deals were carried through, No Man's Land, a miniature empire of 1,500 square miles, was not taken into consideration. The towns of Hot Sulphur Springs and Breckenridge are both located in this area. This situation was revealed by the Register of the United States Land Office. "It is nothing serious," said the Register, "it means nothing in a practical way, but it is an unique situation."

Harry Allen Piles Up 17 Points
Edmonton Athletic Club's front line sharpshooter, Harry Allen, has collected 13 goals and four assists for a total of 17 points, giving him a six point lead over the field in the City Junior Hockey League, according to scoring averages released by W. G. (Bill) Harris, director.

Johnny Black of the Maple Leafs and Freddy Smith, formerly of the E.A.C. but now of the Leafs, are tied for second spot, each with six goals and five assists.

Rue Kleck, Leafs, is next in line with 10 points. Bing Merik, Canadiens, and Art Michalski, formerly of the E.A.C. and now of the Leafs, have nine each.

Jack Ingram, E.A.C. and Ab Supornstein, Maple Leafs, lead the penalty parade, having spent 19 minutes with the timekeeper.

How to Reduce Exchanges and Help the War Effort

To speed the victory, every ounce of rubber now becomes a sacred trust—gasoline is about to be rationed and manpower is becoming a problem. All this means that drastic savings must be made in operating. In an all out effort on the home front, some of the expenditures to which we have become accustomed may have to be cut the hard.

Customers can help greatly by reducing exchanges and their consequent return calls. This will help to save manpower, rubber, gasoline and oil so vital to winning the war. Here is a check list showing the information needed regarding sizes. Keep it for references when ordering. It will help you to avoid annoyance, exchanges and costly return calls.
